

Combat Cognition

Privacy Policy

Effective Date: April 2026

1. Who We Are

Combat Cognition is an independent training application designed to help combat sports practitioners bridge the gap between mat sessions through session logging and guided mental rehearsal. It is developed and operated as a solo project. This policy describes how your data is handled.

2. The Core Commitment

We do not sell, share, rent, trade, or otherwise transfer your personal data to advertisers, data brokers, or any third party for commercial purposes — ever. Combat Cognition does not run ads. There is no advertising business model here. Your training data is yours and exists solely to power the features you use.

3. What We Collect and Why

Account credentials

When you create an account, we store a username and a hashed password. Passwords are hashed using a one-way cryptographic function before storage; we cannot read or recover your raw password. Your email address may be collected in the future to support account recovery and optional product updates — this policy will be updated if and when that changes.

Training and session logs

The app's core purpose is to help you log and review training. This includes session records (date, discipline, duration), techniques you tag, and quality signals you provide after guided mental rehearsal blocks. This data is used exclusively to drive your personal scheduling, statistics, and rehearsal experience inside the app. It is not analysed in aggregate for commercial purposes and is not shared with third parties.

What we do not collect

We do not collect your real name, physical location, device advertising identifiers, contacts, financial information, or any data unrelated to your training activity.

4. Data Storage and Security

Data is stored on secured servers. Passwords are never stored in plaintext. We apply reasonable technical safeguards appropriate to a small independent application. No system can guarantee perfect security; if you become aware of a potential issue, please contact us directly.

5. Third-Party Services

Combat Cognition may rely on third-party infrastructure providers (for example, cloud hosting) to operate. These providers process data only as necessary to deliver the service and are not permitted to use your data for their own purposes. We do not integrate advertising SDKs, analytics platforms that profile you for third parties, or social tracking tools.

6. Your Rights and Data Deletion

You can request deletion of your account and all associated data at any time by contacting us through the app or the contact page on the Combat Cognition website. We will process deletion requests promptly. You may also request a copy of the data we hold for you.

7. Children

Combat Cognition is not directed at children under 13. We do not knowingly collect personal information from anyone under 13.

8. Changes to This Policy

If this policy changes materially — for example, if email collection is introduced — the updated policy will be posted on the Combat Cognition website with a new effective date. Continued use of the app after a posted update constitutes acceptance of the revised terms.

9. Contact

Questions or data requests can be submitted through the contact page on the Combat Cognition website.